DEATH OF JUDGE T. W. KING.

A telegram, on Wednesday evening last brought the painful intelligence of the death of Judge T. W. KING, at Bethesda Springs, Wisconsin, at 12 o'clock last Tuesday night. Though his life was for months suspended by a threat that might break at any moment, the suddenness of the announcement, coupled with the fact that he died far away from the comforts of home and the attentions of friends, adds a deeper shade to the sorrow of an appreciative community.

Judge KING was born and raised in this place, and that the promise of his boyhood has been fulfilled by the man is proven by the almost universal confidence and esteem won by his intellectual power and uprightness of character. His large circle of friends loved him for his many virtues; society admired him for his instructive and remarkable colloquial powers and a spontaneous flow of wit that delighted all and offended none. These social qualities, in conjunction with great mental vigor and broad practical views, made him the most useful man in the county. Of his legal attainments we can not say that as a man, a citizen, and a judge, his loss to the county will long be felt, and long remain unrepaired.

To his wife and children we can offer no consolation that will soothe a single pang; upon time and christian fortitude they must rely for the power to bind up broken ties and heal the wounds inflicted by the hand of death.

The Bar of this city appointed a committee who met the remains at Guthrie, and returned on the 3 P. M. train. The arrival at the depot found a large crowd of citizens and the order of Old Folks ready to escort the remains to Greenwood Cemetery. After stopping at the family residence a short time the procession proceeded to the cemetery, where prayer was offered by Rev. J. P. McFerrin, when the mortal remains of the honored and beloved dead were consigned to their final resting place.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—We publish in another column a despatch in reference to the very destructive fire which occurred in Jackson, Tenn., on the 20th inst., consuming thirteen business houses, including the office and building of the Whig and Tribune, and the post-office. The loss of the Whig and Tribune is stated to be $7,000, and no insurance. We sympathize with all the sufferers by this conflagration, particularly with Messrs. Gates & Co., proprietors of the old, reliable Whig, one of the best and ever welcome papers on our exchange list. We hope all the sufferers by this conflagration may be speedily and fully restored to business.

Since penning the above, we learn from the Nashville papers that the Whig and Tribune has bought out the Plaindealer, and perfected arrangements so that it will not miss an issue.

GRIST MILL.—Mr. M. D. Bell has an excellent grist mill run by a No. 1 engine, located on the lot adjoining W. T. Dorch & Co's flour mill. He is prepared to do grinding every Saturday, so that persons who desire it can send up their corn and obtain a good, fresh article of meal when needed. Mr. Bell is also making preparations to saw wood of any desired length, and will, as soon as possible, furnish good wood, in any quantity that may be wanted. He is a hard working man, and deserves to be liberally supported.

CALEB CUSHING has gained his suit, in Washington, against a faux-colored dog. Whether the action was for assault and battery or trespass does not appear, but he won the suit and the dog was sent to be shot or transported, at the option of the owner. We allude to the case as a warning to all who keep dogs, for no ostensible reason but their capacity for annoying their neighbors by night-long snarling and yelping.

THANKSGIVING.—It is suggested that all Christian people of this city unite in a Thanksgiving meeting—praising God for his blessing and protection from the scourge of cholera, and the ministers of the city are requested to act upon the suggestion in their meeting at 4 o'clock, Monday evening, at the study of Rev. A. D. Sears.

PLUM MANUFACTORY.—The brick work of this building is being put up by Mr. James Davis, one of the most stirring, working men in the community, which is a guarantee that the building will be completed without delay. It is located in front of the river immediately north of the tobacco house of Turnley, Ely & Co. We intend to give the particulars in reference to this important enterprise in our next issue.

AT A primary election held in Cadiz, Ky., last week, Mat McKinney and Col. Burnett being the candidates for the Legislature, the Trice County Democrat says Mr. McKinney received a majority of 31 democratic votes, and was, by the terms of agreement, entitled to the nomination. The Democrat further says, it is hoped that every true democrat will acquiesce and give McKinney his earnest support.

STRAY HORSE.—A roan horse, belonging to Rev. W. A. Turner, escaped from Mrs. Susan Northington's, opposite D. Elliott's, on Red river, on the 19th inst. He has a sore back, but no other special marks recollectable. When last seen he was in the neighborhood of Mr. J. B. Killbuck. The impression is he will make his way to Stewart county, where he was raised. Any information concerning him will be thankfully received by Mr. Turner. Address him at Woodford, Tenn.

NEW STORE.—Messrs. Wesley Orin and A. J. Allen have a building nearly completed for the purpose of engaging in the dry goods and grocery business, located about seven miles from this city, on the Scarcey's Ferry road, at the point known as the Cross roads. It is expected that a wagon and team will be sent to the new store soon. It is also a good location for a tobacco factory, as nearly all the tobacco grown in the southern part of this county and that of Dickson county, passes to market by this point. Some of the citizens of that neighborhood believe that quite a village can be built up there. Success to all enterprise and improvement of this kind.

THE School Superintendent of Shelby county, recommends the University series of school books, not only because it is desirable, for sundry reasons, but because those school books are, intrinsically, the best. We endorse Mr. Tyler's views, recommendation and reasons therefor, and hope our Superintendent will do likewise.

LAFAYETTE MILLS.

Through the invitation of W. T. Dorch, Esq., we attended the "blow in" at this mill last Monday. We found a few invited guests, among whom were Messrs. Ingram & Doak, of the Tobacco Leaf, Capt. F. P. Gracy, of wharfboat, coal, iron and many other sorts of commendable notoriety. Mr. J. D. Voltz, freight agent of the railroad, Mr. Jas. Peacock, of the famous City Mills, and a few others, just enough to render things agreeable without being crowded.

Soon after our arrival several bottles of Catawba wine were opened and a choice variety of other refreshments were spread before us, and the guests proceeded to do justice to both edibles and drinkables. As a matter of course the wine called forth a few toasts which were responded to. Mr. Dorch responded to the toast, "Lafayette Mills," in a brief and sensible remark. "To the City Mills," was replied to by Capt. Gracy, who said that the two mills worked together in great harmony, and that they distributed more money through the city and county than all of the tobacco that was sold here. That the great bulk of the tobacco sent here was from a distance, and when sold the money was sent off and spent at some other point. He said he wished that we had a dozen mills, and that they would "blow in" every few weeks, and always blow money in to the pockets of the proprietors.

Mr. Voltz was toasted with the sentiment that he was the most popular and accommodating agent that the railroad ever had here.

"The Press of the City," was responded to by Mr. Doak, who said, in substance, that he believed the object of the press of the city was to develop and build up the diversified interests of Clarksville, and that although at times there was a seeming difference of opinion as to the manner of bringing this state of things about, yet the honest intention of both was to work for the public good. He said that the press and the people moved together, and one was indispensable to the other.

After Mr. Doak and the applause had subsided, all were politely conducted through the mill by Mr. Dorch. This mill was built in 1854, by the late Messrs. Forbes & Pritchett, and has from its infancy to the present time enjoyed the reputation of producing flour surpassed by no brand in this country. The entire establishment is now kept scrupulously clean, and is furnished with all the latest and most approved machinery. There is on hand at present about 3,000 bushels of wheat, some of it very fine, some light and not so good. The room for receiving wheat has a capacity for holding 25,000 bushels. They turn out from 50 to 100 barrels of flour per day.

Clarksville feels proud of her mills for they have proven to be of great benefit to our people both in town and country. We wish the proprietors great financial success, and hope they may have many "blow ins," and that we may be there to help to blow.

OATS.—Mr. L. Dean, who lives near Corbendale, Tenn., sends us a sample of his oat crop, the heads alone measuring two feet in length. In a note to us he states that he has one or two acres of his present crop that he thinks will yield 60 bushels to the acre. The oat crop of this country has been very inferior for many years, and we are glad to note such a promising yield as in this case on Mr. Dean's farm. He states in his note that corn in that section is tolerably good at present, but will prove a failure unless rains soon. Wheat is rather indifferent, not yielding as well as was at first supposed.—The Tobacco prospect as yet is very poor.

HICKORY WILD ACADEMY.—This school for the education of young ladies is located about one mile from Hampton's Station, in this county, in a healthful, moral and intelligent neighborhood, and a thorough course of instruction is imparted by J. A. Tate, principal, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Knott and her daughters. The second term will commence the 1st Monday in September next. For terms, etc., see advertisement in today's paper.

SOUTH KENTUCKY COLLEGE.—We received a catalogue and advertisement this week of this excellent female college. The advertisement appears in another column. The president, T. A. Crenshaw, A. M., is an educated, energetic gentleman, and is assisted by an experienced corps of teachers. Mrs. E. L. Auchincloss, and Miss A. G. Auchincloss, assistants, are known to our people as being eminently qualified to fill their positions. The next session will commence Sept. 8. For terms, etc., we refer to the advertisement.

THE telegraph announces the death of Capt. Robert D. Dismukes, at Dardanelle, Ark., on the 18th inst. The early part of his life was spent in Davidson county, in this State, and in mature years he was a popular steamboat man. He leaves a large family and numerous friends who will sadly feel his loss.

By reference to the head of the fourth column of advertisements on our first page, the reader will find V. L. Williams' advertisement. He is offering real bargains in boots, shoes, hats, caps, etc., preparatory to purchasing his fall stock. Vol. means business—call and see him.

Old Tennessee bank notes have about ceased to flow into the State treasury, and there is but a small amount of them now in circulation. The finding of the State debt will commence as soon as Gov. Brown recovers from his present illness. Three millions of the bonds have already been prepared for issue.

SINCE the city officials issued an ordinance requiring our citizens to place pavements in front of their property, we notice several improvements of that kind have been made. Others will, doubtless, follow their example, and not put the board to the trouble of having it done for them.

THE School Superintendent of Shelby county, recommends the University series of school books, not only because it is desirable, for sundry reasons, but because those school books are, intrinsically, the best. We endorse Mr. Tyler's views, recommendation and reasons therefor, and hope our Superintendent will do likewise.

GREENWOOD CEMETERY.

We are indebted to Mr. B. O. Keese, his comfortable buggy and well trained horse, for a pleasant excursion to the new, or Greenwood Cemetery. The circumlocutory route we took, brought under our view many buildings and other improvements, in the suburbs of the existence of which we had no previous knowledge, and which encouraged us to hope that a town so favored by locality, health and beauty of surroundings, has not yet attained its full growth. The road to the "city of the dead," though needing attention, is capable of being made easy of grade and smooth of surface, at a very small cost, and as it is destined to become a much travelled thoroughfare, such attention should be given. A well made and an agreeable and tasteful approach to the consecrated ground set apart as the resting place of the loved and venerated dead.

THE LOCATION of the cemetery is a beautiful one not only as regards its surface, but also as regards its position. It is admirably pleased with the tasteful adaptation of the artificial arrangements of the grounds to their natural beauty and grandeur. The place is susceptible of being beautified to an indefinite extent at a small cost, if directed by an eye capable of blending artificial arrangement with natural advantage so as to develop perfect harmony. So far as the work has progressed, it is a success, in this particular, and we have no fear that those who have it in charge will suffer any departure from the plan that is to secure harmony between natural beauty and artificial adornment.

Many burial lots are staked off, and some have been sold, and some are being dotted over with the graves of those removed from other cemeteries to a place where these graves, decorated by the hand of affection, will be under the constant supervision and protection of some one competent to the task.

THE State Superintendent has issued another circular, reciting the law which forbids any one, male or female, from undertaking a public school without a certificate of examination and qualifications from the county Superintendent, defining the penalties for such violation of the law and making the District directors responsible for monies paid by them to such offending teachers. We have little fear that any case of the sort will occur, yet it is not amiss that the law be understood.

We learn by private letter, that the crop prospect around Byhalis, Miss., is quite gloomy. It is stated that seed will not make much seed, and that was required to plant it, and that corn is not much better. The writer says the prospects are worse than they have been for twenty years, and farmers have very elongated faces.

DR. J. S. SELLERS, a native of Philadelphia, and lately of this city, died at Chicago, on the 1st inst. Dr. Sellers was a quiet, unobtrusive, well informed gentleman, possessing social qualities that won for him many warm friends in this community.

The large and interesting Sunday School at the M. E. Church has more teachers. There is an abundance of material among our Methodist friends to change this state of things. Let several who are competent to teach, and have the time, go to-morrow and take a class. All such will find it both pleasant and profitable.

THE Paris Intelligencer says: "We have been informed that coal of a very fine quality has been discovered opposite the mouth of the Sandy river, on the banks of the Tennessee river. Parties are now engaged in sinking a shaft to ascertain the thickness of the bed.—This coal has been pronounced excellent."

In the report of the proceedings at the Bethel conference, which we published last week, in the portion relating to Cedar Hill, it should have read, "For Sunday school purposes $174, or $374 since the present pastor took charge there. Instead of 100 lesson papers, it should read 200.

THE Paris Intelligencer says: "We have been informed that coal of a very fine quality has been discovered opposite the mouth of the Sandy river, on the banks of the Tennessee river. Parties are now engaged in sinking a shaft to ascertain the thickness of the bed.—This coal has been pronounced excellent."

THE recent colored State Convention in Texas insisted upon the abolition and final concession to colored people of all political and civil rights belonging to them as citizens, but disclaim any notion of "social equality."

SCHOOL NOTICE.—The Superintendent will be found at the County Clerk's office on Friday and Saturday of each week, prepared to examine teachers, with the view to placing them at the earliest possible moment. He also earnestly requests all District directors elected to meet at the Court House on the Monday following the election (August 11) to attend to important business connected with the school interests, at which time officers in the respective Boards may be elected, and the business of organization in other respects greatly facilitated.

N. L. WHITEFIELD, Co. Sup't. July 26, 1873-1.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

In accordance with the new postal law, on and after the first of July those of our subscribers who receive the CHRONICLE from the post-office in Montgomery county, will be required to pay postage, five cents per quarter, in advance at the office where they receive it. Subscribers in the city who have had their paper delivered at the post-office, can save the postage by having their paper put in our delivery box in the CHRONICLE office. We will change the names to our office delivery, of all who request it.

POSTMASTERS will please notify us, at once, of any subscribers who refuse to take the paper out, and also, of any who fail to take it out for a month. We are aware that the law requires this of postmasters, and only recur to it as a reminder.

MARRIED.

At Bethel church, on the Hopkirkville place, on the 24th inst., by Rev. H. M. Taylor, D. D., Rev. H. M. Taylor, D. D., and Miss M. A. CAVANAUGH, both of Webster county, Kentucky.
